DD/S [REDACTED]

16 February 1960

1. [REDACTED] buzzed to say that he had received a call from Mr. Vincent Jay, a representative of the National Federation of Federal Employees, who wished to talk with someone in CIA about interesting more of our personnel in their Union and its activities. I asked John to advise him that this would present serious security problems for us and that we would prefer that he forget the whole business; however, if he persists he should call Gordon Stewart. (I have alerted Gordon to this possibility.)

2. I met with John Tietjen and [REDACTED] to discuss medical standards for JOTs. [REDACTED] is drafting a paper which, when concurred in by John, I will sign and distribute to the Medical Staff, the Office of Personnel and the Office of Training.

3. [REDACTED] was in with his crew to give me a briefing, of which the most significant point was that the RCA 501 computer would not be operational until 1 September 1960.

4. Matt Baird and I consulted with General Cabell about training and representation at the Department of Defense Schools. General Cabell was in agreement that we should have a central point of reference for speakers going to these Schools and that we should approach the Services about incorporating a block of instruction in their curriculum. He asked me to raise it at an early Deputies' Meeting.

6. I talked confidentially to General Cabell about two matters involving DD/P. First, I sought his guidance as to what extent the Development Projects Division was expected to coordinate with the Support organizations like the rest of the Agency. He said that he could not give me any clear guidance on this subject but thought that he and I should sit down and talk to the Director about it. He asked me to obtain a few examples to illustrate the problem. (I have asked Jim Garrison and Ed Saunders to supply me with some examples.) Second, I also told him that it might be appropriate for us to discuss with the Director at the same time the problem of the DD/P Budget. I told him that we were getting practically no information from DD/P and that I could not tell him or the Director whether their Budget was too high or too low. He also felt that it was important to discuss this with the Director on a confidential basis.
